Sorry all....I was at an appointment and am playing catch-up.

1st choice: Monday a.m. 10-11 EST is free for Richard and Eric

2nd choice: Monday p.m. 4-5 EST is also free, but is right after a stakeholder group meeting, which has a chance to run late.

Tuesday a.m. will not work.

Thanks Eric! Monday is busy but it looks like EPA folks are available between 10 and 11am EST, which is preferred, or 4-5pm EST. Tuesday from 9-11 EST also works.

Hopefully MDEQ folks can make it during one of those times.

Best wishes,

Heather

Heather – it looks like Richard is out early this morning. I can certainly provide an update and some insight but it might be better to wait until next Monday to get a more comprehensive overview of our response to Wolverine and PFAS issues in general.

Good morning Suzann!

EPA folks should be available to meet to discuss this issue anytime between 11am and 1:30pm EST. Please call if you need me to arrange a different time to meet MDEQ availability.

Thanks for your help.

Best wishes,

Heather

Thanks for the note, Eric. If Suzann could include the EPA folks copied hereon, I'd appreciate it. A few of us are out today but I think we can provide enough attendees to make a call today worthwhile. Thanks.

Chris – sorry I missed your call and thanks for the offer to partner on the response to this evolving issue. I think a conference call today would be ideal. DEQ is actually assembling an entire task force under the Governor's office to handle our response. Extensive sampling is underway and the responsible party has been installing treatment systems in homes that are in areas of concern out of an abundance of caution.

I can have Suzann work with your staff to set something up.
